RESUME OF PATRICIA ANNE JACOBS

Patricia A. Jacobs was born in Chicago, Illinois. She did both her undergraduate and graduate work at Northwestern University. She received a bachelor's degree in Engineering Science in 1969, a master's degree in Operations Research in 1971, and the Ph.D. degree in Applied Mathematics in 1973.

Following graduation, she became Assistant Professor of Operations Research at Stanford University where she taught courses in probabilistic models. In September 1978, she joined the faculty of the Naval Postgraduate School in the Department of Operations Research as Associate Professor.

She is a member of the Institute of Mathematical Statistics, the American Statistical Association, the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Meteorological Society, the Institute of Management Science, and the Operations Research Society of America. She is a fellow of the Royal Statistical Society. She has served as Associate Editor for Management Science since 1981 and as Associate Editor for the Naval Research Logistics Quarterly since 1982. Her research is in the areas of data analysis and applied probability.
